Cause of well explosion, fire investigated

Workers jump from burning rig

BY LEA SMALDON
Didsbury Review

An explosion that engulfed a gas rig in flames near Didsbury last week, sending two workers to hospital and scaring nearby residents, is under investigation.

An Angle Energy official confirmed an explosion, release of gas, subsequent fire and the injuring of two workers at its newly drilled sweet gas well about 2.7 kilometres northwest of Didsbury last Tuesday evening, Aug. 26.

"Right now we're in the process of investigating the incident. We don't know the exact cause yet," said Stuart Symon, Angle Energy Inc. vice-president of finance and CFO, late last week.

Meetings with company officials and provincial regulatory bodies have been ongoing but further details of the incident have yet to emerge.

Area residents are calling for answers now.

"I don't feel safe after this. And without any information, it's not helping," said Amy Enns, who, along with her family, not only felt the ground tremor but witnessed the explosion and smelled its smoky aftereffects.

Last Tuesday around 6:50 p.m. Enns was in her home that sits about 278 metres from the rig located off Range Road 22.

"First you could hear the whoosh - the gas coming out of the ground, a huge sound of air movement. There was a tremble in the ground. And when I looked out there was just flames. You couldn't tell the rig was even there," said Enns. "The first thing you think of is 'where are the kids?'"

Enns' daughter and her three children, aged four to nine, were staying in a holiday trailer on the acreage that also houses her husband Gil's autobody repair business.

The explosion rocked the holiday trailer and everyone in it, says Gil.

He was outside when the explosion occurred, and immediately yelled at his daughter and her family to leave the property.

Amy called 911.

"We could hear these fellows, they were screaming," she said.

The Didsbury Fire Department was first on scene and helped a company medical attendant with two injured workers who were transported in a mobile treatment centre up the muddy lease road to an ambulance that was waiting on Range Road 22.

"It was determined that there had been a release of gas and it wasn't leaking," said Larry Gratton, operations manager with MountainView Regional Emergency Services. "Nevertheless, we still go with our heads up and eyes wide open. We let the fire department go in first."

While the fire department worked to extinguish the fire, monitored air quality, and help with the injured, the ambulance waited for the two known patients.

"Two workers on the rig were forced to jump to the ground," said Gratton. "They (on-site workers) told us they fell 25 to 30 feet. That's believable."

Both the 32-year-old and 26-year-old male workers that were on the rig when the incident occurred, suffered minor burns and back injuries, said Gratton.

"The oil company personnel at the scene managed quite effectively and professionally from our point of view," said Gratton.

The injured workers were transported by ambulance to Didsbury hospital and then transferred to the Foothills hospital in Calgary in serious but stable condition.

Occupational Health and Safety is investigating the incident.

Angle Energy Inc. has secured the site and a stop work order has been issued for operations at the well.

The sweet gas well had already been drilled and it was in the finishing stages when the gas release, explosion, and subsequent fire occurred, said Symon.

"It was a completion rig. After you drill a well, then you have to install equipment. It's an open hole at that point," he said.

The Angle Energy Inc. official couldn't confirm late last week how much gas had been released before the shut-off valve was closed on the newly drilled well.

"I think as someone who lives right next door to this that we'd be getting some answers by now but nothing. This really scared us," said Enns.

CLOSE CALL - Amy Enns stands at the edge of her acreage motioning how high flames reached when gas exploded at the completion well pictured in the background, last Tuesday night. The corner of Enns' house is about 278 metres from the rig.

Meat recall affects local selection

BY LEA SMALDON
Didsbury Review

Prepackaged deli meat selection in Didsbury has been affected by a nationwide voluntary recall of over 200 varieties of meat and prepared sandwiches that could be linked to a disease outbreak confirmed to have contributed to the deaths of eight people.

The town's only grocery store, AG Foods, stripped cooler shelves bare of all Maple Leaf Foods prepackaged meats last week, as well as products made with Maple Leaf meats.

"We've pulled all the products off, across the board. We would rather be safe if there's something they (health officials) don't know yet," said AG Foods manager Greg Poirier.

Maple Leaf initiated a voluntary recall of two Sure Slice brand sliced meat products Aug. 17 after discovering Listeria monocytogenes (commonly called Listeria) in those two products that were produced at its Bortor Road (Establishment No. 97B) facility in Toronto.

Listeria is a type of bacterium often found in food and elsewhere in nature. It can cause a rare but serious disease called listeriosis, especially among pregnant women, the elderly or people with weakened immune systems. Symptoms are often associated with food poisoning.

Health officials say a Listeriosis outbreak in Canada began around June 1.

Three days after the initial recall, the plant was temporarily shut down and the recall expanded to include 23 varieties of products produced as far back as June 2 on the two manufacturing lines identified as the source of the Listeria contamination at the plant.

Canadian Food Inspection Agency officials say federal lab tests have concluded that the strain of bacteria found at the Maple Leaf plant is linked to the outbreak.

As of Aug. 28, 29 cases of the same strain of Listeriosis had been confirmed in six provinces including Alberta and the same strain of Listeriosis was confirmed as being a contributing cause in eight deaths.

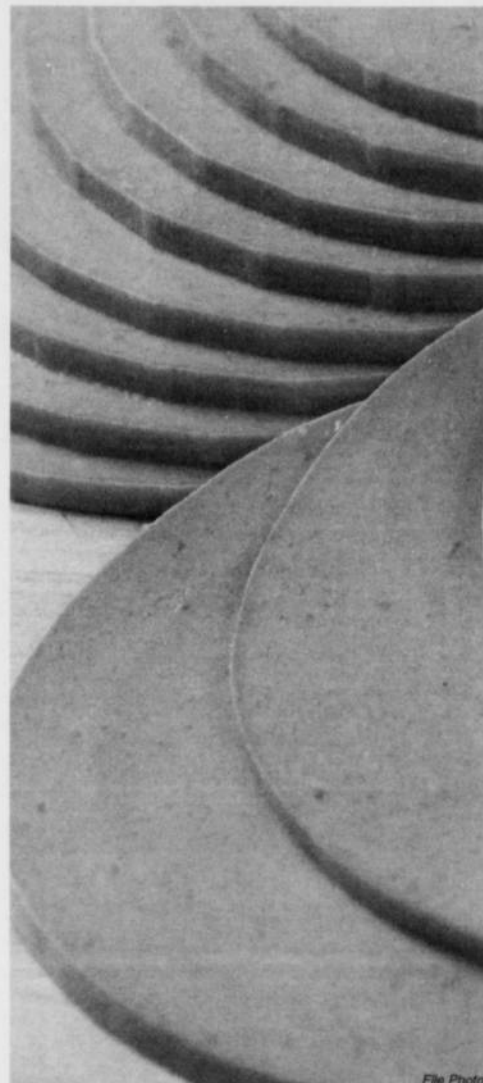

By last week, the voluntary meat recall had grown to include over 200 varieties of meat that represented all production from the Bortor Road facility in Toronto as a further precautionary measure.

Some of the brands included in the recall include Artesian Collection, Best Value, Bittners, Schneiders, Burns, Campfire, Compliments, Coorsh, Harmonie, Hickory farms, Hygrade, Kirkland Signature, Mitchell's, Olympic, Overlander, Parma, Shopsy's, Western Family, and Westfair with product best before dates ranging up to May of 2009.

All products affected by the recall can be identified by the Establishment number that appears on the package - Est. 97B, located near the 'best before' or 'packed on' dates.

Area customers with recalled products in their homes are encouraged to bring them into AG Foods for a full credit, said Poirier.

The recalled product is being stored, pending confirmation of its safety status, he said, and will be monitored for expiration dates as time goes on.

"This could take from two days to six months from now before they decide what's going to happen," said Poirier.

The store is able to source similar varieties of products from other sources but because they are smaller manufacturers, the range in product variety may be different, he said.

Consumer knowledge of the recall is high as is concern for safety, said Poirier.

"I understand they're scared right now," he said.

Alberta's acting chief medical officer of health released a status report last week on cases of Listeriosis in Alberta and outlined steps being taken to determine whether the cases are linked to a national recall of Maple Leaf meat products.

"Alberta is collaborating with the Public Health agency of Canada and the Canadian Food Inspection Agency to ensure the product recall is successful in Alberta," said Dr. Gerry Predy, acting chief medical officer of health. "At the same time, we are investigating cases that occurred during the period of the recall to determine if those cases are linked."

Six cases of Listeriosis have been reported in Alberta since the defined outbreak start time of June 1. Test results for two of the cases suggest they are not linked to the outbreak strain, and tests for the other four (including two deaths) were pending as of late last week.

While the recalled retail products were distributed to outlets including convenience stores, deli counters, grocery stores, and wholesalers, the products were also distributed to nursing homes, hospitals, and restaurants across the country.

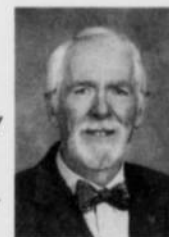

McDonald's, Mr. Sub, Tim Hortons, and Boston Pizza are among those affected by the recall.

Youths charged in connection to threats against school enter pleas

BY TIM DENOUESTEN
Didsbury Review

Two 13-year-old youths both charged in March on numerous counts, including unauthorized possession of a weapon, entered pleas during Didsbury provincial court on Aug. 25. They cannot be named under the Young Offenders Act.

One of the accused has pleaded guilty to charges of unauthorized possession of a weapon, uttering threats to cause bodily harm and theft under $5,000.

The co-accused youth has pleaded not guilty to charges of unauthorized possession of a weapon and carrying a concealed weapon.

Police have declined to elaborate on the specific circumstances of the charges while the matter is before the courts, but indicated previously that threats were made in relation to Westglen Middle School. The nature of the threats has not been made public, but photos showing a suspect holding a handgun were posted on the Internet just prior to the boys' arrest.

Although both boys have been prohibited from using the Internet until the matter is resolved, Judge J. Ogle granted a request from the accused for Internet access to do schoolwork, but only while at school using school computers.

The accused will make his next court appearance on Nov. 17, 2008, while the co-accused is scheduled to stand trial on May 20, 2009.

Commission eases water ban

BY PAUL FREY
For the Review

The Mountain View Regional Water Services Commission eased the total ban on all outdoor watering on August 25, lowering it to Level 1 activity.

For residents, that means watering on alternate days, until further notice.

Warren Smith, a director on the commission representing Olds, said while the total ban was lifted due to cooler, wetter weather over the preceding week, a Level 1 restriction still means there is a supply-demand problem.

"For most people it does not pose a restriction. It's a very minor inconvenience," he said.

Smith said the restriction does mean that people need to become more aware of how much water they are using on a daily basis.

"It does indicate to us that we must become more aware of our use of potable water," he said.

The reservoir got down as low as 42 per cent of capacity on the morning of August 12, but it needs to be at minimum 85 per cent full before the restrictions are totally lifted.

"I guess it's heralding the fact that this could happen again and again and we are simply going to have to use less water per capita in our daily activities," he said.

Smith noted that despite Olds council taking the position that water consumption needs to decrease by 10 per cent over the short term, those measures are not being implemented by residents — and water use is in fact increasing.

"As we put in place restrictive measures such as a conservation policy, we find that we're going the other way — we're using more per capita — (and) we're not sure why," he said.

Smith said Olds residents consistently exceed the water commission's quota of 375 litres per day per capita of water consumption. He said more education, in addition to finding where leaks might be taking place, is needed, adding that the time to twin the line and proceed with construction is fast approaching.

Until further notice, people with even-numbered houses can use outside water only on even-numbered calendar days while those with odd-numbered houses can use water on odd-numbered

"For most people it does not pose a restriction. It's a very minor inconvenience."

Letter to the Editor Rodeo animals not abused, contrary to letter

Re: Tamara Chaney's letter published on page 4 of the August 26 edition of the Didsbury Review.

I am sorry to hear you feel the way you do about rodeo. First of all, what sport isn't about money and entertainment? Cowboys and stock contractors often spend more than they make throughout their lives, I assure you, when you add up the expenses, time and facilities they build to care for these animals. I can personally say my rodeo animals live higher on the hog, per se, than my family does, with the large barn, shelters and land they have to roam.

The metal spurs that competitors wear have dulled, not sharp rowels and by the rules set out by the rodeo associations, are not locked but free-rolling. Correct, an animal's skin is thicker than a human's; a human's measuring only about two millimetres thick, whereas an animal's, depending on horse or bull, is anywhere from five to seven millimetres thick. The flank strap is made of sheepskin lined to cover the belly and both flanks, with a quick-release buckle. It is not on the groin of a horse and does not hurt or touch its genital area.

Mutton busting is for the children, and what harm do you feel it is doing to the sheep? The children riding them on average are less than 40 pounds.

Chuckwagon racing was around long before rodeo. If you look into our history our ancestors came across the land on horseback and in covered wagons. Rough stock events are a far cry from a lion on a human's back digging its claws in.

Before you go making accusations about what animals enjoy, I suggest you spend some time with them. Horses often run and buck in the field all on their own out of pleasure, not fear.

I can understand you feel bad for the "whittle calves", but ranching, farming and caring for them is a way of life and sometimes they have to be restrained.

Before judging a lifestyle that represents Canadian history, maybe you should take a look at a place such as Mexico, which has bullfighting and actually murders bulls. Rodeo prolongs lives of many animals who would otherwise be butchered to serve you dinner. These animals are well-fed and cared for. I know more people who have been injured or killed competing in rodeo than animals. Rodeo people work longer and harder than the animals competing do. Out of the 22,900 animals which were bucked one year, only three animals were injured and had to be put down. Also the Canadian Professional Rodeo Associations as well as Amateur Rodeo Associations have an open working relationship with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA) agents and inspectors.

If rodeo is not your thing, then that is fine, but before writing your strong accusations into a paper distributed to a farming, western community, you should think about your audience. I am surprised to see you didn't write a letter opposing dogsledding, since Didsbury was to host one.

Next time the rodeo comes to town, I invite you to read the rule book, and educate yourself on the animal welfare section, in particular. Also, come down and meet the people involved, and the animals. Maybe if you were to experience this with an open mind, you would have a different outlook.

I hope that maybe I was able to answer a few of the questions you had about our wonderful sport of rodeo.

Commentary

In response to the Listeriosis outbreak

DR. DAVID BUTLER-JONES

No doubt you have been hearing a great deal about the ongoing outbreak of listeriosis. It is understandable to be concerned when you hear that food you eat and that you feed your kids might have something wrong with it.

First, I want to offer a sincere wish for a speedy recovery to anyone who has fallen ill, and my sympathies and prayers go to those who have suffered the loss of a loved one.

Second, there are some very simple steps we can take to protect ourselves and our families.

Check the Maple Leaf Foods recall list on the Canadian Food Inspection Agency's web page, www.inspection.gc.ca. If you have doubts about any of it, just throw it out or return it to the store.

Beyond that, be aware cooking or heating your food until it is piping hot will kill the listeria bacterium. Do not forget to refrigerate cooked foods immediately and to keep your kitchen and utensils clean. Finally, avoiding unpasteurized milk and milk products, and washing fruits and vegetables is always important.

Listeriosis can cause symptoms such as persistent fever, severe headaches, neck stiffness, nausea and vomiting. Symptoms can occur as little two days after eating a contaminated product, but it can also take over two months.

For most of us listeria does not pose a big risk, and healthy people who are exposed to it are rarely affected by the bacteria. But there is potential risk to seniors, young children, pregnant women, and people with weakened immune systems. So if you are in any of these groups and are suffering from these symptoms you should speak to a doctor or health provider.

Keep in mind that serious diseases like listeriosis and other infections can actually occur at any time, and are not just related to this outbreak. While outbreaks like this can, and do, occasionally occur, Canada's food supply truly is one of the safest in the world.

The Government of Canada continues to work closely with all provinces, territories, and with the food industry to respond to this outbreak, to safeguard the food supply, and to protect your health.

Dr. David Butler-Jones is Canada's first Chief Public Health Officer and heads the Public Health Agency of Canada.

Message from your local Chinook's Edge school trustee

A sincere welcome back from the Board of Education to students and staff alike, and best wishes for a productive and enjoyable school year. There's a similarity with farming in the sense that however things went last year here we are with a fresh start and a new crop to care for and do our best with.

This starts my eighth year as a trustee, though I did take a break from 2004 to 2007. There are various reasons why I was interested in running for trustee not least of which is a thirty-one year career as a professional educator, two-thirds of which was spent in administration. It was one area where my knowledge and experience could be put to good use serving the local and wider community in a different capacity.

The idea of public education is also a passion. If ever there was a melting pot in North America it was this institution that has taken children from all kinds of backgrounds and nationalities and nurtured their talents and aspirations to become citizens of the most envied countries on earth.

This position of trustee still operates on the basis of local democracy. It is vitally important to keep this part of our system alive. We once had local hospital boards but now the health system has been fully centralized. It could well be that the future holds the same fate for locally elected school boards unless we make the role of school trustee relevant for our local communities.

Foremost among my goals is trying to prevent the fragmentation of public education, particularly by the increase of private schools and the encroachment of separate education into rural areas like ours where small populations and limited resources are further divided up. I also have a real interest in supporting efforts to improve our students' learning and to raise the results across our division in provincial achievement tests and diploma exams. The role that computer technology can play here is vital as long as it is used wisely. It's an expensive area where we have to be able to show the results justify the budget.

Locally, our schools are a credit to the community and in good shape, though there are still things to finish on the new high school which I hope to be able to expedite. Of particular importance is the good relationship we have established with the mayor and town council - something I want to foster over the next two years for it can only result in benefit to students, and that, after all, is what we're all about.

In brief

Indecent exposure charges laid

Didsbury police arrested a Rimbey man last Thursday on charges of indecent exposure related to an incident that occurred on the streets of Didsbury last Tuesday.

Police issued a public alert after a man allegedly exposed himself to a couple of girls walking down the sidewalk in Didsbury Aug. 26.

In issuing the alert, police did not wish to alarm the community. However, police said they felt it prudent to alert the public in case other similar incidents were noted.

At approximately 8:45 p.m. that Tuesday night, a bigger older model blue van, possibly a Chevrolet Astro had pulled up alongside a couple of females walking on the sidewalk, police reported.

It is alleged that, as the van drove by, the Caucasian male driver had lifted his hips and was shaking his genitals in his hand. The window of the van was up at the time and no effort was made by the driver to make contact with the two females.

The girls say they hid behind some parked cars until the vehicle was gone and unfortunately were not able to obtain a licence plate of the suspect vehicle.

Two days later, Didsbury RCMP members responded to a 911 call regarding a suspicious blue Chevrolet Astro van that had been noted in the original RCMP alert.

The report indicates that the male driver was wearing similar clothing and engaging in a similar activity as had been reported on Aug. 26.

RCMP members immediately conducted patrols and surveillance using unmarked police cars. At approximately 9:15 p.m. the suspect vehicle and river were located and an arrest was made without incident.

Samuel Dennis Zelmer, 27, has been charged with two counts of indecent exposure. He appeared before a justice of the peace and was subsequently released on an undertaking with conditions. He is to appear in Didsbury provincial court Sept. 10.

Shopping centre plans progressing

With the recent granting of a land use redesignation, developers are now able to proceed with plans for a mini power shopping centre on Hwy. 582.

A bylaw to amend the designated use of a section of land along Highway 582 - between 16 Street and 14 Street - from Light Industrial to Commercial was given final approval during last Tuesday's council meeting.

Acting CAO Luana Smith said developers can now proceed to submit plans to the development department for potential approval by the Municipal Development Board.

According to a proposal submitted by Bert Brown Land Consultants Ltd. on behalf of Marco Contracting, the commercial rezoning would allow for the development of a commercial shopping centre on the site.

James Carpenter, an agent acting on behalf of Marco Contracting, the owner of the property says a big name hotel, coffee establishment, restaurant, and retail stores are being courted to locate in the proposed shopping centre.

"We've approached several franchises Tim Hortons, Boston Pizza, Best Western, Super 8 and others."

Jeff Greene, Senior Project Manager for Bert Brown Land Consultants Ltd., said if the land use was approved, construction could start as early as next spring.

"Right now we're doing survey work and traffic analysis work. Once we get all that completed, and get the land use approved - if it is approved - what would likely happen is we'll try to see if we can start doing some site work this fall so that we can start constructing buildings by spring."

The public hearing held in council chambers last Tuesday to hear views on the redesignation, drew a packed crowd, with many speaking for and against the redesignation.

Council passed the redesignation unanimously.

Council nixes free spay/neuter program proposal

Didsbury council nixed a proposal last week that would have increased dog licence fees as a way of funding a free spay/neuter program in the town.

The town's animal control contractor, Alberta Animal Services, proposed council approve a $2 additional charge on all dog licences to fund a spay/neuter program that would be free of charge for those who license an unaltered dog.

The program works well in Red Deer, according to George Potter of Alberta Animal Services and could boost licence sales and promote responsible pet ownership in the town.

Administration advised council that some citizens may feel that they should not have to sustain an increase in licensing to pay for someone else not taking responsibility in having their pet altered.

As well, countered administration, the issues in Didsbury have been with the abundance of cats, which is not part of the proposed program.

Council accepted the proposal as information only.

100-mile wedding gives new spin to eating local

BY LEA SMALDON
Didsbury Review

There would have been no 'pass the salt and pepper please' or 'one sugar lump or two?' heard much at Gerda Vester's wedding dinner last week, because if it wasn't produced locally, it wasn't on the menu - at least on the first day of celebrations.

With their belief in ecology and sustainability, Vester and husband James Edwards ushered in their new life together with a 100-mile wedding at Didsbury's For Trees farm over the weekend.

"According to our stipulations, this means all the food and drinks will be produced and manufactured within a hundred mile radius of Olds," states the wedding invitation in stylized printing.

The two locavores - those who eat local food as much as possible - planned four days of feast, fun and socialization with the idea of reducing their environmental footprint.

"The 100-mile wedding was something we both wanted to do. It's like the 100-mile diet. People don't appreciate food the way they should. This is our sustenance. If we can't do it locally, if something strange happens in the world, we're not going to get things from California anymore. We have to rely on what we've got here," said Gerda, who along with James, works at For Trees and practices sustainable living at their home in Olds.

The foray into sourcing ingredients locally for a desired wedding dinner menu was a lot harder than she had anticipated.

There's no sugar manufacturer within a 100 miles of Olds so she began experimenting with locally produced honey.

"I got a lot of crisps out of it," she laughed.

Lasagna recipes had to be experimented with to accommodate the change to locally sourced barley flour from store-bought white flour.

"That was really a challenge. Recipe books just don't call for barley. I was able though to find some on the internet."

All pasta served during the wedding celebrations was handmade.

Fresh fruits from the area, including the couple's own backyard in Olds, went into juices and fruit crisps.

Eggs, meat, and vegetables were sourced from their hundred-mile boundary.

"Some of it tastes bland because of course there's nowhere around here that makes salt and pepper. So some of it might take some time to get used to."

The over 160 guests invited to the festivities were asked to bring their own bowls, plates, flatware, drinking cups and glasses - and salt and pepper if they couldn't go without.

"We are trying to reduce our footprint and thought our wedding should be the same," she said.

Wherever they could, they rented needed items like a tent.

Practically everything that was bought for the wedding - including roasting pans, big spoons and the like - will be used again.

"It's been a mix of reactions. From 'wow what a wicked idea' then it's 'wow, you've set yourself up for a lot of work.' And it's actually been both."

While James went with a secondhand suit tailored, fitted, and accessorized to suit his style to make his nuptials in, Gerda opted for a skirt and blouse combo crafted by a Carstairs woman. Pieces of her outfit had to be bought, with one piece manufactured in England.

"Again, you can't get everything within the 100 mile radius. The food was the main things for us. Some things you want to be easy."

And, as the weekend progressed and the 100-mile food ran out, she said they would be running to the store to buy what they needed.

Annual charity golf fundraiser a success

The Rosebud Health Foundation held its 7th Annual Charity Golf Fundraiser under sunny skies at the Collicutt Siding Golf Course in Crossfield on August 22. The event was again a glowing example of the community support and the importance placed by the greater community to make sure our local health facility remains a state of the art facility. The event raised approximately $19,000 which is earmarked to purchase a Wander-Guard system for acute care, in order to prevent patients from leaving the facility unnoticed.

I would like to let the world know how much we, as a board, appreciate this support and how happy the caregivers are to be able to provide first class service to their patients with the funds of that community support. A separate editorial may give more details about the event, but I would like to confirm that four companies responded to the tournament with a platinum sponsorship; six companies responded with a gold sponsorship and 10 companies responded with a silver sponsorship. In addition 62 companies and individuals responded with prizes, cash, and/or in kind donations. In total 106 golfers joined us for the afternoon with Chris Epp, born and raised in our area, now reporter and news anchor with CTV Calgary, filling the spot of Honourary Chair of the Tournament. A group of volunteers rounded out the workforce. A marvellous banquet of chicken and ribs catered by Barb Melnychuk and her staff replaced the energy lost on the course.

It should also be noted here that Vern Good is the legal adviser for the foundation. He has provided all his services free of charge since the charter of the foundation. There is no question that our hospital and the caregivers that manage it, enjoy a high degree of community support.

Colts hit the ice

With the arrival of September, the Mountainview Colts are headlong into preparation for the start of the Heritage Junior Hockey League season.

The local junior B team is hosting their annual try-out camp at the Carstairs Arena this weekend with a guarantee of four ice times for players.

Registration is set for 6 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 5 followed by ice times at 7 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Ice times for Saturday and Sunday night will be the same as Friday.

The sessions are for players 17 to 20 years of age and midget-aged players must have a permission to try out slip from their local association.

The camp is the first step in preparing for the HJHL season that starts on Saturday, Oct. 4.

The Colts will be starting the season on home ice in Didsbury, hosting the Ponoka Stampeders at 8 p.m.

It launches a busy October for the locals as they play eight games in the first month of the season, including five on the road.

The unbalanced 36 game schedule will see the Colts play each of the other 15 teams in the league at least twice with home and away dates.

A first glimpse of the HJHL's newest entry, the Strathmore Wheat Kings won't happen until Saturday, Nov. 29 when the Colts head south for a matchup with the expansion team.

The return matchup is set for Didsbury on Jan. 24.

There also will only be two chances at retribution against the Three Hills Thrashers, who knocked the Colts out the playoffs last spring in a hard-fought five game series.

Mountainview will be in Three Hills on Nov. 21 while the Thrashers make their only appearance in Didsbury on Jan. 31.

The Colts will be playing four games apiece against the Banff Academy Bears, the Ponoka Stampeders and Rimbey Rock, according to the schedule released on the league website.

All other teams will be seen twice, once at home and once on the road.

For more information or to pre-register for the camp contact Cliff Murphy at 403-559-9991 or Cory Shields at 403-439-0033.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Elwood Casebeer (Casey) who passed away September 3, 2006.

We often think of bygone days
When we were all together
The family chain is broken now
But memories last forever.

Sadly missed and always remembered by Betty, Richard and Casebeer family.

Ron Finkbiner Died September 2004

To my dearest Ron
In the quiet graveyard, Where the gentle breezes blow,
Lies the one I loved so dearly, Whom I lost 4 years ago,
His resting place I visit, And say a special prayer,
But no one knows the heartache, As I turn and leave him there.
I miss you with all my heart and soul.
All My Love, Dawn

Why preplan with us?

If you like the peace of mind you get from insurance, you'll understand why it makes sense to preplan with us. We know of no other funeral home's policies that work as hard to do all this:

- Spares your family from making detailed decisions at an emotional time
- Ensures that wishes are expressed
- Prevents overspending and can lock in costs

We're experts at preplanning, and know all of the issues that may arise. Call us, you'll be glad you did.

Chamber Chat

It might not seem like a new year to many of you, but those involved in your chamber of commerce are gearing up for a new year of get-togethers with our members. The first general membership meeting after the summer break takes place on Wednesday, September 10 at the Didsbury Golf Course.

New businesses, old businesses, home-based businesses - we want you all! And it's going to be a real treat eating steaks overlooking the beautiful greens at the golf course. Call Deb Pelletier at 403-335-4222 or Tammy at the chamber office for tickets. If you're interested in volunteering with the chamber, or if you're just curious about what's going on in town, you are more than welcome to attend the dinner meeting.

Keynote speaker for the September 10 get-together is Ian Taylor, Didsbury's trustee on the Chinook's Edge School Division Board. He will discuss how our tax monies are utilized. Come with your questions!

Committee members for the Small Business Gala, Country Christmas, downtown Christmas light decorations, and Rosebud Run Skeddog Classic, have been getting ready for their events, and there are lots of new ideas floating around ... come to the meeting and hear some of the great plans!

Watch the next issue of the Didsbury Review for news on the chamber's special guest speaker, Roy Prevost, who will be talking to retailers, and all business people, on How to Prosper in a Big Box Retail World. Mark your calendar for Monday, September 22. For more information in the meantime, call Kathleen at 403-335-9445.

For more on the Didsbury Chamber of Commerce, please check out the website at www.didsburychamber.ca or call 403-335-3265.

180. Thank You 180. Thank You

Our heartfelt thank you to everyone who sent cards, flowers and the much appreciated food and baking. Also those who phoned and visited to offer condolences and help in any way. Kelly will be sorely missed, but we are comforted to know he had many, many good friends.

Thank you all again.

JOHNSON, KELLY

JULY 13, 1950 - August 13, 2008

We are deeply saddened to announce the sudden passing of Kelly Johnson on Wednesday, August 13, 2008, at the age of 58 years. Kelly will be deeply missed by his wife Vicky and their sons Dallas and Tyson, all of Didsbury, AB; his sister Marna and Stewart Wollard of Rocky Mountain House, AB; his four nieces, Leanna (Ray) St. Onge of Rocky Mountain House, Marci (Brady) Terpsma of Beaumont, AB, Nadine Overwater of Revelstoke, BC, Krista Overwater of Rocky Mountain House, AB and their families; also the Ray and Helen Wagner families, all of Alberta. Kelly will also be remembered and missed by a great many friends with whom he worked and played and whose lives were enriched by his friendship. Kelly was predeceased by his mother Doris (Wynjies) Johnson; his father Thure Johnson and his nephew Joel Terpsma. Kelly worked most of his life in the oilfield industry. He loved motorcycles and purchased his first one from money he earned delivering newspapers. He was lovingly known for having some of the best cared for vehicles and machinery in town. He had a great love of animals and spent his relaxation time with his three dogs on his lap. He was approaching retirement and was looking forward to operating a small landscaping/construction business. In keeping with his wishes, there will be no funeral or services. Cremation will be carried out by Heartland Funeral Services Ltd. In lieu of flowers, friends may make memorial tributes in Kelly's memory to the S.P.C.A. of Alberta.

With grateful hearts we thank family and friends who came from near and far to celebrate with us the Life of Susan (Luft) Graham, surrounding us with love and kindness in our time of sorrow.

Special thanks to Rev. Nancy Norse for her comforting service, Doreen McEwan and Debbie Goodwin for their beautiful music, Judy and Steve Filmore for their duet so beautifully sung.

We would also like to thank those who sent cards, e-mail messages, floral arrangements, food and visits; all of which were very much appreciated.

Special thanks to the Zion ladies for serving a delicious lunch.

Many thanks to those who made donations to various charities.

Sincere appreciation to all
God Bless

HOW TO JUST BE!

I have come to this point in my life, after experiencing hills and valleys of grief and strife; that all that is truly important to me, is that I live every day and moment as God would, to just BE!

Susie's journey touched deep into my heart and soul, it brought out in me strength and love, but also took a toll; and as I sit here and reflect on the divine plan, her living and passing was to teach unconditional love to all of man.

How I cherished her humbleness and grace, as she held so brave a death stared her in the face; her fight to stay was so valiantly admired by all, as the angels, spirit guides and God gave her the call.

I felt such pride to be part of our loving family, as each of us contributed from our hearts, what we thought should be; the safety Susie must have felt as she lay nurtured in her bed, that we all were present and the "I Love Yous" were said.

Oh, she has taught us so much, not to judge, but just to love, and it's OK to grieve and shed the tears and be gentle as a dove; be compassionate, grateful and kind to every living thing, and when your heart feels heavy and sad, just go ahead and SING!

Our beloved daughter and sister Susie, we thank you for being part of us, as you have taught us more about God, the Journey and ...

HOW JUST TO BE!

A dedication to Susan Graham from her loving family!
